

Go Ye to the Land of the Cedar and Vine

William Oland Bourne, 1857

W. D.

♩ = 90

1. Go ye to the land of the ce - dar and vine, Where the an - gels came down from their
2. Go ye to the land of the jew - el and gem, Go ye to the stores of the
3. Go ye to the land of the ol - ive, and teach Of a peace which the world is not
4. Go ye to the land where the E - thi - op roams, And stretch - es his long fet - tered hea - ven - ly train, Where the gar - den was fill - èd with pre - sence di - vine, And the rich - est of pearl; The light of sal - va - tion is giv - en to them, There a - ble to give; To the flow - er - y land, where the mes - sage shall reach The hand un - to God; Oh! tell them of Hea - ven, and point to the homes Where Sav - ior has trod - den the val - ley and plain. For a star hath a - ris - en, to ear - ly the ban - ner of glo - ry un - furl; Oh, go to the isles of the mil - lions that wait in the Sav - ior to live; Go ye to the la - nd of ne - ver the foot of op - pres - sions hath trod; And the de - sert shall bloom, and the shine through the gloom, And a life break - eth forth from the verge of the tomb. o - cean's wide breast, A - nd tell them of Je - sus, and Hea - ven and rest. For a ru - by and gold, A - nd bid them the crown of re - demp - tion be - hold.

bar - ren shall sing, And the wild - er - ness forth in - to beau - ty shall spring.

Refrain

star hath a - ris - en, to shine through the gloom, And a life break - eth forth from the verge of the tomb.